

Purpose

This document establishes when work in public rights-of-way is subject to restrictions due to the Holiday Season.

The Holiday Season for the purpose of this procedure is defined as the time period from noon the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to the first weekday after the New Year's Day federal holiday.

These restrictions are a standard Right-of-Way Use Permit condition for all work performed within downtown Bellevue and major commercial areas including, but not limited to Factoria, Crossroads, Overlake, and BelRed.

Overview

The Holiday Season restrictions are implemented through Right-of-Way Use Permit conditions and may be further implemented through city or external agency public work contracts and related Bellevue Special Provisions. There are four phases of restrictions that occur throughout the season. This document outlines the roadways and corridors restricted during each phase.

Activities permitted by the Special Events Committee are exempt from these requirements. Emergency work on critical public infrastructure to address health or safety threats, as well as essential franchise utility work needed to restore customer service during outages, are also exempted.
